Hearing impaired students learn differently. Their needs may require a different style or a different rate. They don't like to draw attention to themselves and can be overlooked by their teachers. There have been significant changes in technology and that includes the technology used by hearing impaired students. Hearing aids and classroom FM systems can seem overwhelming.

As a speech therapist, teachers come to you as experts wanting information. Cochlear implants are now seen in schools across the country. This workshop will provide you the knowledge to become an SLP with insight on these students and their academic lives. The conference will cover hearing loss and its implications for classroom difficulties, along with the changes in hearing aids and various new FM choices. It will cover information on the everyday challenges of the hearing impaired student and its effects of learning. It will also include the latest information on Cochlear Implants and their increased use by the deaf and hard of hearing.
